

Community leaders are supporting our struggle for fairness at Borax.

Hundreds of us marched from town to the company gates where we delivered a giant Christmas card asking Borax to "Have a Heart."

On December 16th, hundreds of family members and supporters visited our union hall to speak-out, support us, and celebrate our "Unity with our Community" event.

Supporters came from Boron, North Edwards, Mojave, California City, Tehachapi, and other towns. Rite Aid workers from Lancaster and Palmdale came to lend their support.

Small business owners explained how protecting good union jobs at Borax will help keep our communities healthy and support small businesses.

Religious leaders from many faiths came to support our struggle for justice. They read from the scriptures and led us in prayers that affirmed our work for fairness.

After the meeting, everyone marched to the company gate to deliver a Christmas card to Borax, urging them to "have a heart." We lit candles and said a prayer that asked for strength to stick together and support each other. We left feeling stronger and more united.

Business leader F.O. Roe has lived in Boron for 52 years. He joined other business leaders who support us.

Like many others, Tyler and Kayla Martz brought their family along to celebrate "Unity with our Community."

We're united with our community to win a fair contract at Borax.
